

Biological Sciences

Katelyn Dilbeck

Submitted by Jennifer Betancourt

For her diligent study in the Biological Sciences, exceptional course scores, and conscientious desire to assist her classmates, Katelyn Dilbeck is awarded the 2024 Outstanding Student in the Department of Biological Sciences. Katelyn possesses a supreme academic work ethic, native intellect, and warm, embracing personality. She is one of the most dedicated tutors in our department, actively generating useful study materials for her fellow students and supporting them with kindness. She has a genuine desire to knit together scientific details into a cohesive broader and relatable understanding of biology. Katelyn exemplifies the grit and grace required for successful biological research, and the genuine compassion and willingness to help others that are required for future success in our changing world. She is respectful, professional, and has actively participated in a variety of ways to further the sense of community that is cherished in our department.